News Report One 第 1—2 题

A one hundred and four year old woman is selling the house she has lived in since she was two years old. Nancy Gifford was born months after the end of the First World War, and spent 102 years living in her three-bedroom house in the Somerset village of Street. She is now putting it on the market, having lived in it through the Second World War and the [1]_____ of television. Her family bought the house for two hundred [2]_____ in nineteen twenty one, and it is now priced at some one hundred and seventy thousand pounds. According to the Bank of England's inflation [3]_____, two hundred pounds in nineteen twenty one would be worth seven thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds today. According to the estate agent, the house was built in eighteen eighty two and [4]_____ featured a well for the entire road. Except for some changes in the [5]_____ and wash area, much of the house remains the same. Mrs Gifford is selling the house and moving to a nursing home in [6]_____ Glastonbury because of her health.

News Report Two 第 3—4 题

The Navy rescued a man who survived twenty four days floating in the sea on a boat by eating [1]_____ sauce and vegetable powder. The man, forty seven, wrote the word help in English on the boat, which was key to his [2]_____. The man told authorities that his experience began in December, when currents swept the [3]_____ out to sea while he was making repairs. To survive, the man collected rain water with a [4]_____ . He had to constantly remove water from the boat to prevent it from [5]_____. He also tried to light a fire to send a [6]_____ signal without success. Finally a plane passed by and he signalled with a [7]_____. He said the [8]_____ told him that he was spotted when the plane passed again. The [9]_____ was abandoned at sea when the man was picked up by a nearby merchant ship. He was found in good health, but had lost weight.

News Report Three 第 5—7 题

The Board of Denver Public Schools is set to close several elementary and middle schools to make up for a decreased budget caused by declining [1]_____. The specific schools will be announced in the coming days, a district [2]_____ said. The school board approved criteria to close schools with fewer than 215 students, as well as schools with fewer than 275 students and a projected decline in [3]_____. In the next three years, the district expects to [4]_____ 3,000 fewer elementary and middle school students, it said. 3,000 students may not seem like that many students, but to a budget where you're receiving per-pupil funding, that's about $36 million, district [5]_____ Scott Pribble said. We know that there are impacts and it's [6]_____ and difficult work, but in order for the district to stay out of debt, it's a step that needs to be taken, he said. The district said the decreased budget means it cannot provide the same mental health supports, social and emotional services or specialized programming to schools with lower [7]_____.

Conversation One 第 8—11 题

Good afternoon. Theatre Bookings International. My name's Philip. How may I help you today? Oh, good afternoon. My name's Helen. I've been trying to book tickets for the [1]_____ Cats in London on the evening of May the 28th. But I can't get the computer to accept my card [2]_____. I've tried three times, but it just doesn't want to take it. That's okay, madam. I can book it and take the [3]_____ over the phone if that's not a problem for you. That would be wonderful. I'm not very good with computers. My husband usually does all of these things, but he is in Italy on a business trip until next [4]_____. And I know how quickly these things can sell out. They do indeed, madam. Cats on May the 28th at the Lion [5]_____ in London at 7:30 P.M.? Yes, that's the one. And I will need two tickets, please. Not too close to the front. Actually, all the tickets at the front are already sold out anyway, but I can offer you two [6]_____ near the middle. I [7]_____ that you don't want to be too high up. Oh my goodness, no. I'm scared of [8]_____, and you can never see anything if you are too high up anyway. No problem, madam. I'll reserve those for you now, and all we need after that is the [9] _____ of your card number and your full name, and then we are done.

Conversation Two 第 12—15 题

Hi, John. Why haven't you answered my text messages [1] _____? Oh, I didn't know you had sent any. I turned off my phone almost a week ago and haven't turned it back on since then. Why would you do something like that when our phones make our lives so much more [2] _____? Well, I downloaded an app that recorded how much time I spent on my phone, and I was [3] _____ to realize I was using my phone an average of eight hours a day, and, on my worst day, I used it for twelve hours. Were you addicted to mobile phone games? I had a friend who was, and he sometimes played them all day and into the night. No. My problem was that I was spending too much time on social media, messaging friends, and commenting on other people's posts. I do all of that too, as well as shopping online, and paying for everything with my phone. That is really why I don't see how anyone could live without a mobile phone. How do you buy things, or [4] _____ with your friends? Since I've stopped using my phone, I go to physical stores and pay in cash. I've actually met friends for meals at [5] _____ and restaurants. That's great for you. But my friends and family don't live in this city, so we can't see each other often, and I don't have any choice but to [6] _____ with them online.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

If US workers want to [1] _____ jobs they'd better do it now. Last year job switchers earned far higher [2] _____ increases than those staying in their jobs, but the gap is now closing. A three-month moving average of annual wage increases from the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank's Wage [3] _____ shows that US job switchers got the highest wage increase last July when the measure touched 8.5 percent. Since then it has gone up and down, and has been going [4] _____ down since November. The gap in [5] _____ gains between people who switched jobs and those who stayed in their jobs is now closing. On average, people who changed jobs have almost always gotten better pay raises than those who stayed, but in the past the difference was usually around one percentage point. In July, though, the gap [6] _____ to two point six percentage points. But now wage growth is slowing down for everyone, and job switchers are getting smaller wage [7] _____ in their new jobs. At the moment, those who change jobs get an average 7.3 percent [8]_____ every year, while those who stay get a 5.4 percent raise. That suggests the demand for workers has reached, or is at least nearing, its [9]_____. The labor market is likely cooling because even a shortage of workers isn't overcoming the historic [10]_____ between employers and employees in the US. The [11]_____ of income that workers take home as a proportion of what the US economy produces is still falling.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

Highly [1]_____ foods, the kinds made with lots of sugar, fat, and salt, make up as much as sixty per cent of the average American diet. But a new study shows that their low price and [2]_____ come at a cost to health. The study found that, when people ate a highly processed diet, they consumed about five hundred more [3]_____ per day than they did when they ate a less processed diet. They also gained two pounds over two weeks, even though both diets had the same amounts of [4]_____, like sugar, fat, fiber, and salt. It wasn't a shock to find highly [5]_____ foods weren't healthy. Other research has linked them to a higher risk of cancer and [6]_____. What was unexpected was that sugar, fat, and salt didn't seem to be what caused people to [7]_____. This is the first trial that demonstrates that there is something about highly processed foods, independent of those nutrients, that causes people to [8]_____. The study also found that, when eating a highly [9]_____ diet, people ate faster. This could be one reason why they gained more weight. Highly processed food tends to be [10]_____, which makes it easier to chew and swallow. One theory is that if you're eating more quickly, you're not giving your gut enough time to signal to your brain that you've had enough [11]_____ and that you're full. By the time the brain gets that signal, you've already [12]_____.

Passage Three 第 22—25 题

Women continue to spend more time than men taking care of children and doing chores around the house. This is generally attributed to [1]_____ thinking and conservative values. But new research shows that such differences could be linked to differences in the [2]_____ of males and females. The new study looked at how men and women were [3]_____ work at home, and why they divided it that way. In general, both men and women took more responsibility for [4]_____ they liked. For example, men liked yard care and home [5]_____ more than women. They leaned toward wanting primary responsibility for such [6]_____. The researchers stated that differences in [7]_____ of household and child care tasks matched how men and women chose to split tasks. The [8]_____ added that there was not a single child care task that men liked more than women. Keep in mind, however, that, as with any research on group differences, there were large within-group differences. The study's authors concluded that differences in men's and women's time spent on child care and household tasks do not mean [9]_____. The authors noted that previous research [10]_____ gender differences in attitudes towards family and career. These differences appear as early as six years old. Girls that age already show more interest in helping and caring for others than boys do, and they already exhibit a greater [11]_____ toward family versus career.

How do you like it? It's very pretty, but it was [8]_____ with tourists. Yeah, well, it's crowded everywhere. It is August, after all, the [9]_____ month of the year. Yes, it's like the whole world is here on holiday, including us. What will you do tomorrow? I haven't decided yet. I was thinking of doing what you did today: [10]_____ the old streets and taking pictures. I was also thinking of visiting the square with the [11]_____ steps. What is that? I haven't heard of it. It's a square where, on one side, there are some very wide steps with flowers that go up to a church. It's also in all the tourist guidebooks. It's very famous and pretty. I was also thinking of seeing that tomorrow. It sounds very nice. Do you mind if Kathy and I join you tomorrow? Not at all. I spent the whole day today pretty much alone. Doing [12]_____ stuff with others would be a welcome change. Let me ask her first, but I'm sure she'll be up for it.

Conversation Two 第 12—15 题

Can you give me advice about being successful at a new job? I start mine next week. Sure. It's important not to [1]_____ the significance of the first few days of your job, since this is the best time to create a solid first impression. That's a good point. I'll need to [2]_____ with my co-workers, and I'm very aware of just how important others are for my success at work. It's also important to understand your role [3]_____ to gain a comprehensive picture of your job. The most important thing for you to do at first is to understand your role from multiple [4]_____. Why is that? Well, what you do at work is not just limited to your job description. You need to consider how your work relates to other people within the organization. Oh, right. So, for example, certain reports that I create at the end of the month may be used by a team in another department. That's right. And in that respect, it's also important to learn about the business to see the big picture. You mean like knowing about the history of the company? Kind of, but more like knowing the details of the products and services that the company exists to [5]_____. Learning about the business will give you a chance to understand how your role fits into the bigger picture. Okay. I'm feeling a bit [6]_____ about meeting my boss as well. That's to be expected. However, it's crucial that you get to know the people who have decision-making authority to gain [7]_____ regarding how the business is run and decisions are made. Great advice. Thanks.

I just get [9]_____ before I fly and feel nervous the whole time we're in the air. Which is why I was hoping the television program would cover that [10]_____ more than it did. Yeah, that [11]_____ was too brief, especially as so many people have that problem. She said 20% of people are [12]_____ to fly. Actually, it was a quarter of people, so the problem really is [13]_____ and deserves attention.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

The most common question I'm asked always centers around how to get started in user experience design, to which my response is always that nothing can [1]_____ real world experience. Building the skills required of a user experience designer takes time, [2]_____ and commitment. Higher education is a great way to equip yourself with some core [3]_____ but it will not prepare you for actual challenges you'll face with client work. In other words, being [4]_____ with a design tool and a few methods doesn't make you a user experience designer. There simply isn't a one-size-fits-all process. Being effective requires [5]_____, something you don't really learn in school, much less in a six-month training camp. It's gained through experience on the job and learning what's [6]_____ given the needs of the project. I found my way to user experience through [7]_____ design and slowly over many different roles and experiences, that led me to become a user experience designer. It took time and commitment to continue to [8]_____ roles within teams that I knew could teach and challenge me. That's not to say that I think my [9]_____ is the only one. But once again, nothing can [10]_____ real world experience. You can start anywhere, as long as you know your end goal, and you commit to [11]_____ pursuing opportunities to learn and grow along the way.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

When planning for this year, our principal asked what needed to change to [1]_____ students more in their learning. I responded in a [2]_____, "Flexible seating," thinking about our then current classroom. It had rows of desks with blue chairs and name plates, [3]_____ each student where they should be sitting. This began a journey to [4]_____ our practice and challenge the ways of learning for a group of Year Six students used to sitting in desks and rows for years. Flexible seating has been defined as [5]_____ furniture to create an engaging learning environment. It is a [6]_____ in practice from being teacher focused to student focused learning. For us, flexible [7]_____ has meant removing most of the traditional chairs and desks, and introducing a variety of different seating options to promote student engagement. The use of rows and their minimal adaptations to U-shape were traditionally intended to [8]_____ on-task behavior and reduce distraction from the teacher. Teachers tend to still use this format because of either the need to control students or the [9]_____ that the teacher is the most important person in the room. Now our students have a range of different seating options, including a floor desk, couches, [10]_____, bean bags, and the traditional desk and chair. From our experience so far, flexible seating enhances student ownership of space and engagement in learning, while reducing rates of student [11]_____ and disciplinary actions. It is a win for all concerned.

I've been thinking about moving off campus next [1]_____. Hmm, I don't know if that's a good idea, as your mother and I would worry about you living all by yourself in an [2]_____ so far from home. And then there's the expense, too. I'm not sure we can afford it. Well, I wouldn't be alone, actually. Three of my friends from the [3]_____ would share the place with me. And, with four of us, it wouldn't cost any more than living in the [4]_____. Are you sure about that? Rents in big cities are high, and then there's the cost of [5]_____ and gas. Have you factored those in? We've budgeted for those, and for Internet and [6]_____. And if we move far enough from the city center, the rent is low enough for us to [7]_____ all of it. What about the [8]_____ to and from campus? It sounds like you'll be wasting several hours every day on the road instead of studying. It's about an hour to [9]_____, but there's no reason I can't study on the bus. After all, I did that during high school, and my [10]_____ was even longer then. That's true. But I'm not sure why you want to leave [11]_____ and go through all that trouble when the cost is the same. For a lot of reasons. We'd have a [12]_____ so we could cook ourselves. And we'd each have our own 13 _____ where we could study instead of going to the library. We'd just have more space and privacy. I'm not convinced that the benefits are greater than the 14 _____, but I'll discuss this with your mother.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

We 1 _____ that if we offer our customers more choices, then they'll be more likely to buy our products. But here's the paradox of choice. If a person is presented with too many choices, they are actually less likely to buy. In twenty twelve, 2 _____ published a study about jams. On a regular day at a local food market, people would find a display table with twenty-four different kinds of 3 _____. Then, on another day, at that same food market, people were given only six different types of jam choices. Guess which 4 _____ table led to more sales? The study found that, while the bigger 5 _____ table created more interest, people were almost ten times less likely to purchase a jar of jam than in the case of the smaller display. Customer satisfaction takes a hit as well. In the study, the bigger display of jams leads to lower customer [6] _____ than the smaller display. In an extensive study published in twenty fifteen, researchers [7] _____ a total of ninety-nine choice studies and specifically looked at those cases in which reducing choices helped to boost sales. They found four rules that [8] _____ consumers to buy. When people want to make a quick and easy choice, when the product is complex, when it's difficult to compare alternatives, and when consumers don't have clear [9] _____. So as you can see, when it comes to choices, less is more.

Did you hear about Johnny? No, why? Is he okay? He had some plastic surgery done. What? Why? Do you remember he had a [1]_____ on his face? Yes, of course. He always had that. I've known him since primary school, and I always remember him having that on his [2]_____. Well, he had it fixed. Fixed? What do you mean? You can't fix a scar. You know what I mean. He had an operation done on it, plastic surgery, in order to cover it and make it less [3]_____. Oh, well, that's ridiculous, isn't it? It was [4]_____, sure, but it wasn't an ugly scar. It never occurred to me that he should have it taken care of like that. I agree. I can understand some scars and physical defects can be ugly and [5]_____, but not Johnny's. In fact, I thought it added character, like it gave him a certain [6]_____. He must have felt differently, though. He must have felt self-conscious and [7]_____, perhaps. No, no, that's not the reason. He was totally fine with his scar. As you said, he had had it for most of his life. Then why did he have the operation? Because his girlfriend wanted him to. What? That's so superficial and selfish of her. If Johnny's girlfriend doesn't like him for who he is, then she does not [8]_____ to be his girlfriend. You're right. So he is [9]_____ to give in to her like that. But when I told him, he said he loves her and would just do what she wants him to. What a fool he is!

Passage One 第 16—18 题

Talking is unique to humans. An animal might make ten different sounds, but an adult human knows more than twenty [1]_____ words. [2]_____, we're the only animal that expresses thoughts in full sentences. Researchers don't think language was invented. Instead, they think it evolved. How did talking evolve? There are two main theories. The first theory is that language started with people making different sounds, mostly [3]_____ the things around them, like animal calls, nature sounds, and the sounds of tools. Perhaps they made the sound of wind to comment on the weather, or [4]_____ the sound of a bird to tell a friend that there was a bird nearby. Then, over hundreds of thousands of years, those sounds turned into words that people began to learn as part of their language. At some point people started stringing the words together to form [5]_____. The other main theory, which is more recent, is that people started off by gesturing, pointing at things with their hands and [6]_____ actions using their bodies. Eventually these [7]_____ turned into full sign language. This theory guesses that after developing sign languages people eventually started making sounds along with their [8]_____. At some point they switched to mostly making sounds that became words instead of just using their bodies. The reason they switched to making sounds, the theory goes, is that talking out loud lets you [9]_____ with someone even when you can't see them.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

Is it a good idea to display [1]_____ brands and other signals of status? It depends on the situation. Studies have shown that people who appear to be wealthy tend to be considered more intelligent, [2]_____, and competent than those who do not. But new research found that people believe someone who shows off their social status cares more about benefiting themselves than helping others. This means people are less willing to [3]_____ with them. [4]_____ may be key when cooperation is essential, but the researchers also found that in some cases status signaling has advantages. Experiments showed that [5]_____ were less likely to choose someone who signals their wealth or status to join a group seeking cooperative members, but participants were more likely to choose that person when they were looking for a competitive team member. These findings [6]_____ that people should change how they present themselves depending on their social goal. This is the era of social media. People can easily share their wealth and status to large audiences, but they need to consider the [7]_____. Posting about luxury purchases and expensive vacations online may help you to persuade others and [8]_____ competitors, but it could also signal to potential friends or future employers that you are unlikely to think about the needs of others. This makes things tricky for people who may want to [9]_____ others while also demonstrating that they are a team player.

I need to stop at the bank to [1]_____ some cash. Why not just pay with your phone? Well, actually I've stopped using online [2]_____ for the past three months now. Stopped paying online? Oh, you must be [3]_____ that online payments aren't secure. No, they are safe. But paying online is too [4]_____ and I spent too much money on things I didn't need. Oh, [5]_____ purchases can be an issue for me too. I've definitely bought clothes and shoes I didn't need because they were on sale, and paying with my phone was so easy. But I've found that if I review my [6]_____ every night, that keeps me from spending too much. I tried that strategy, but it just didn't work, because I'd be busy studying all day, then, when I was tired and hungry, I'd use my phone to order food, like burgers and other junk, instead of going to the [7]_____, where I could get a healthier meal for half the price. Well, what do you do now, then? It seems like you'd have the same problems with cash. I go to the bank once a week, and the rest of the time I keep my bank card at home, so I can't get more cash out. And I also have a [8]_____ where I record my expenses. But what prevents you from just going to the bank and getting more money if you want to buy something. The first month I did [9]_____ extra cash twice, but I felt guilty about it, and after that I refused to spend more than what I had budgeted, and by now it's just a habit.

Welcome to The Morning Show. Our [1]_____ today is a popular blog writer and a major figure in the tiny home community. Welcome, Bob Jones. Hi, Mary. Hi, Bob. You're an [2]_____ of the tiny home movement. A lot of people don't know about this movement. Can you tell our [3]_____ what it's about? Well, it's mainly about increasing home [4]_____ and protecting the environment. Of course, those are great goals. But I've seen your [5]_____ and you write about houses that are as small as twenty square meters. That's not a realistic size for families. I do talk about very small homes, but there's no set [6]_____ of a tiny home, and other people include homes that are much larger, say sixty square meters. And you'd be surprised. Many families of four are happy living in houses that are under thirty square meters. But I think most of us want [7]_____ homes. The average new house in this area is one hundred fifty square meters, and that's what people dream of owning. Yes. But I think that dream needs to change, [8]_____ the cost of housing. [9]_____ costs are high, but do people really save that much by having a smaller home? Absolutely. Many people who can only [10]_____ to rent a larger home are able to buy a tiny home. In this city the average home costs two hundred thousand dollars, and a [11]_____ home costs just fifty thousand dollars. Those are huge savings. So [12]_____ homes might not be for everyone, but they're a good option for many. You mentioned the environment earlier. How does this benefit the planet? Well, if people have smaller homes they use less land and fewer [13]_____ to build them.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

Kids need time every day to run, jump, [1]_____ and play. These experiences have been shown to build children's confidence and [2]_____ in physical activities, develop their motor skills and even improve emotional well-being. To begin with, children seem to have a natural desire to [3]_____ challenges and take risks. Taking healthy risks through physical movement builds children's confidence and ability to solve problems and [4]_____ through frustration. [5]_____, movement activities build children's big body skills such as coordination and balance, as well as the fine motor skills they need for tasks like writing, tying their shoes, or throwing and catching a ball. [6]_____, according to the American Psychological Association, regular physical activity, and especially outdoor activity, reduces children's stress and depression and improves their ability to focus and learn. Regular exercise can significantly improve self-regulation and decrease [7]_____ consequences for negative behavior. Physical activity provides a positive outlet for [8]_____, anxiety or anger and can become a healthy coping skill throughout life. Finally, we know that physical activity is important for our physical and mental health, and [9]_____ the habit of physical activity starts early. Children are more likely to develop a [10]_____ love of physical activity from frequent positive early experiences. Not every child enjoys [11]_____ sports or playing with balls, and that's okay. There are plenty of other options, such as [12]_____ play, non-competitive games, and gardening or nature experiences.

A new study finds that job seekers are even willing to explore jobs with lower salaries when companies are more [1]_____. It finds that sharing information about [2]_____ makes job postings more attractive to job seekers, even when pay is lower. To conduct the study, the team partnered with an online job listings platform, which emails postings relevant to individuals and their job search [3]_____. For the course of the eleven week study, the platform emailed job [4]_____ to some one hundred eighty thousand users, placed in one of two conditions. In the [5]_____ condition, participants saw emails in the normal format, with no information on diversity. In the diversity condition, [6]_____ saw a diversity score for each listing, information about the race, gender, education, and language skills of a company's workforce, compared to others in the same sector and location. Information was then [7]_____ on whether the email was opened and which job listings were clicked on by each user. Participants in the diversity condition tended to click on job listings from companies with slightly higher diversity scores than those in the [8]_____ condition. That is, [9]_____ seemed to be paying attention to information about diversity, and using this when deciding whether to click on the listing. And the team also found that [10]_____ were willing to look at listings with lower salaries if they came from companies with a higher diversity score.

A new study from Oregon State University found that dogs tend to match their [1]_____ with the children in their family. The findings are important because there is a growing body of evidence that dogs can help children in many ways. These include helping with social development, increasing physical activity, managing anxiety or serving as a source of [2]_____ in the face of changing family structures. Yet very little research has focused on how dogs [3]_____ and socially engage with children. The great news is that this study [4]_____ dogs are paying a lot of attention to the kids that they live with, said Monique Udell, the lead author of the study. One interesting thing we have [5]_____ is that dogs are matching children's behavior, but less frequently than what we have seen between dogs and adults. This suggests that while dogs may view children as social [6]_____, there are also some differences that we need to understand better. While research has found dogs can have a lot of positive impacts on a child's life, there are also risks associated with a dog-child relationship. For example, other studies have found dogs are more likely to [7]_____ children versus adults. We still have a lot to learn about the dog-child relationship, Udell said, but research does show that kids are very capable of training dogs.

Tom, did you see the article online about the new TV series based on the book The Three-Body Problem? A [1]_____ mentioned the book, but I've been so busy writing my thesis that I haven't been able to read for pleasure in months. Well, sounds like if you're going to read anything for fun, this is the book. It's written by a Chinese science fiction [2]_____. I can't remember his name, but he's written three books in all, and The Three-Body Problem is the first in the series. I don't want to say too much and spoil it for you, but it's definitely got some amazing technological and [3]_____ concepts in it. It does sound like it would [4]_____ my taste, but if they are making a TV series based on it now, I don't know if I should read the book or watch the show first. I think it's better to read the book first. It's rare for the show or movie to be better than the book, and then you just end up [5]_____ the book for yourself if the show isn't very good. When is the show supposed to start? I'm a bit overwhelmed with the amount of data I still need to collect to finish my [6]_____. But I still need to relax sometimes. I can't remember exactly. It's pretty soon, and it's going to be quite long. There are twenty-four episodes. Well, maybe you could download an [7]_____ copy of the book and try to read it before the show starts. That's a good idea, and then maybe we can watch the series together. Thanks for the tip, Alice. No problem.

Hello, good afternoon. I have an inquiry to make. It's about the [1]_____ Food Festival you are holding on the nineteenth of August at the Newcastle City Hall. Yes, of course. My name's Philip. How can I help you? It says on your website that you are still looking for [2]_____, and I grow organic vegetables on my farm, as well as doing my own home baking. Would I be able to sell both the vegetables and items [3]_____ from them at the festival? That's exactly the type of thing we are looking for. We are getting close to the [4]_____, however. Do you [5]_____ to fill out an application on the web or to print it out and fill it in by hand and then post it back to us? Remember that you will have to have all your [6]_____ to hand when you are filling out the forms as the standards are high and they will be carefully checked before anyone will be able to sell their produce at the event. I should be fine with doing it on your website, and I already have all my [7]_____, as we run a small farm shop, too. But can you give me your [8]_____ anyway? Sure. Please address it to The Organic Organization [9]_____ Applications, one hundred and twelve Queens Road, Newcastle, Northumbria. The [10]_____ is NU twenty nine three L J. Remember that the closing date is next Tuesday, the twenty eighth of June. That's absolutely wonderful. Thank you so much for your help. Goodbye.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

Supporters call it wild [1]_____; opponents call it illegal camping. What both sides accept is that there has been a boom in the past few months, with increasing numbers of [2]_____ pitching their tents on any bit of land they fancy in the UK. In part, this reflects the fact that official [3]_____ have been wholly or partially closed or are overflowing in a summer when fewer people are going abroad. It is also cheap at a time when many are [4]_____ about what the economic future holds. But it may also be an expression of a desire for going outdoors, a response to the months of [5]_____. Most of the coverage of the boom in wild [6]_____ has been negative. Camping in public parks has now been banned for August and the early part of September because campers dump litter, human waste and even their tents on the [7]_____. Similar action has been taken even in Scotland, where [8]_____ is usually permitted on most of its open land.

Clearly there have to be rules. It would make sense that wild [9]_____ need to ask for permission to camp from land owners, especially outside Scotland where the law is far more restrictive. It would be common sense for people to use small [10]_____ and leave no trace of their visit. They have been attracted by a patch of land that is close to [11]_____, and it is their responsibility to keep it that way.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

Imagine boating down the Amazon River, minding your own business, calmly keeping an eye out for [1]_____ large snakes, and a curious pink dolphin appears to swim alongside. While this may seem like a [2]_____ creature, pink dolphins do exist in the Amazon region. The Amazon river [3]_____ is a giant among its species. It can measure up to two meters long and weigh around two hundred and four [4]_____. Size isn't the only thing that sets the Amazon River [5]_____ apart. Thriving in South American rivers and temporary lakes caused by seasonal flooding, this freshwater dolphin is sometimes [6]_____ pink. Although born gray, males of the species are easily identified as they enter [7]_____ by a decisive pink shade. Their unusual [8]_____ is believed to be the result of scar tissue from dolphin fights, whether play fighting or a serious bid for a mate. The deeper the [9]_____, the more attractive the males are believed to be, and the older the male, the more pink he will have. There is also a theory that this colour helps the [10]_____ more readily blend in with their surroundings. During heavy rains, rivers along the Amazon [11]_____ turn a pink shade, and with their pink coloring, male dolphins are harder to detect. The Amazon [12]_____ system, fed by the Amazon River, is a crucial place for pink dolphins to breed, and since 2018 has been granted internationally protected status.

What's the best way to [1]_____ children how to save and spend their money? You should make money a regular [2]_____ of discussion. It's best to start young, so it's [3]_____ rather than a scary subject. In our family, we talk [4]_____ about things like the budget for holidays, how taxes reduce your income, and how to shop around for the best deals. Indeed, it's also essential to make money real for children through [5]_____ examples. Working out how much we save using discount pizza [6]_____, for example, is much more relevant than abstract sums. We also give our kids pocket money, and the amount they get is linked to [7]_____ such as putting the bins out and emptying the dishwasher. We do that too, and it's paid according to their age: two pounds for each year, so they can see some [8]_____. Teaching them to save is important. We opened a savings account when they were young. After birthdays and Christmas, they would go to the branch and [9]_____ their gift money. Oh, I hadn't considered doing that. In our house, we have [10]_____ money boxes for them to put small change in so they can see their savings grow. When the time is right, I'll start talking to our children about [11]_____ and show them how the money saved for their further education has grown. I am always talking to my [12]_____ daughter about the importance of saving into a pension. She's just started a part-time job and was thinking of not contributing to her [13]_____. Luckily, I managed to persuade her otherwise. Yes, it's such an important [14]_____ to learn.

Conversation Two 第 12—15 题

Welcome to Books in Review. Our guest today is John Banks, the author of the best-selling new book, [1] _____ Success. Glad to be here, Jane. Your book has sold two million copies, but before we [2] _____ why it's getting so much attention, let's talk about your background. You're an [3] _____ and spent two decades teaching at universities? I spent twenty-five years as a professor actually, and then for the last ten years I've worked as a political consultant, [4] _____ politicians at the national level about problems in our country. You discuss three of those problems in the book: improving public education, reducing our nation's health care [5] _____, and increasing personal savings. But your ideas about education are the most [6] _____. Absolutely. A lot of people think I'm trying to [7] _____ students who aren't doing well, when actually my goal is to give all students more incentive to succeed. I'm not sure I agree with you. Your proposal to pay cash [8] _____ to students who get good grades is a particular problem. What about students who don't get good grades? It seems like you're blaming them for not [9] _____, when poor performance in school isn't a child's fault. But my proposal is not just to [10] _____ students with good grades, but also students who show improvement. Okay, another criticism of the plan is the cash [11] _____ themselves. Where will the money come from? If students do better, we'll spend less on [12] _____, so in the end the rewards will pay for themselves. What about now? How will we fund the [13] _____ in the meantime? Well, by increasing taxes or moving money from other areas of the budget into education.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

I met three different people today, and each time when I asked, "How are you?" the [1] _____ was exactly the same: I'm busy. Honestly, I hear the same answer from the [2] _____ majority of people I meet. So I started to think, guess what? Everybody's busy. I'm busy. You're busy. Everybody's busy. So you being busy doesn't make me [3] _____ at all because busy is the state of the world. So I'm launching a campaign to stop people [4] _____ about being busy. It may sound [5] _____, but the truth is nobody cares. In a busy world, being busy doesn't stand out, nor does it mean productive, creative, [6] _____, or professional. Steve Maraboli once said, When someone tells you they are too busy, it's not a [7] _____ of their schedule, it's a reflection of your spot on their schedule. Donna Lynne Hope has also [8]_____, Busy doesn't mean better. I have never [9]_____ a busy person, the one who likes to point out their busy lives to others. The reality is, nobody's too busy. It's just about priorities. So the next time someone asks you how you are, maybe respond [10]_____. In my experience, the I'm busy response is really covering up the fact that they're not actually [11]_____ their real purpose, and being busy is the lie they tell themselves about why they can't achieve it.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

More and more people are taking up extreme sports like [1]_____, skateboarding, mountain biking, and many more. Why are these sports becoming so popular? One thing that [2]_____ sports do better than perhaps anything else is to help you stop being afraid. It may sound strange to say that their main function is to [3]_____ fear, but after a time, your fear response to other things in life will be dramatically reduced. After all, if you can jump out of a plane or off a [4]_____, then you can face anything else easily. When doing [5]_____ sports, you have to become more focused. You'll be pushed to your limits, and if you aren't [6]_____, you'll make dangerous mistakes. Learning to be this focused when enjoying extreme sports will help you to be focused at work, keeping you more [7]_____ and ultimately more successful. It's great to stay fit and healthy, but standard exercise routines and sports only work the same muscles [8]_____. With extreme sports, you'll be working entirely different muscles, and that means you get an all-over [9]_____. Extreme sports also burn a lot more [10]_____ than other sports. [11]_____, for example, can burn as many as 500 calories per hour. Basketball [12]_____ around 300 in the same time. When you find that you can overcome the physical or mental challenges involved in extreme sports, you'll feel [13]_____ and your self-confidence will be at an all-time high.

Passage Three 第 22—25 题

Most of us have been in teams or organizations where we've had [1]_____ with the people that we're working with around the ideas or decisions that we're discussing. Conflict is natural. We all bring different life and work experiences to the table. We all have different personality preferences and [2]_____. We're not all going to have the same ideas on how to approach policies, programs, or problems. But too often we get caught in this place where conflict is [3]_____ to be negative, something we want to avoid so that we can maintain the harmony of our workplace. This could be because some people want to avoid [4]_____ at all costs. After all, they still have to work together. But this kind of artificial [5]_____ isn't the answer. [6]_____ conflict is a vital part of teams and organizations that want to push forward and do more. Without conflict, we're often stuck in this artificial harmony where people don't express potentially [7]_____ ideas for fear that they may start conflict with others. But if you're in a place where you have a basis of trust, conflict can be extremely [8]_____. It can lead to increased [9]_____ and greater trust on teams. It may be an [10]_____ process, but good leaders and healthy teams recognize that productive and healthy conflict is an important part of how they function.

Have you noticed how similar you are to your friends? It may be because your brains [1]_____ in harmony with each other. We know that friends are more likely to be the same age, gender, and [2]_____ background as each other. Now it seems their brains are [3]_____ too. Researchers at the University of California scanned the brains of 42 [4]_____ while they watched videos intended to provoke varying responses. Some people might find a romantic scene touching, for instance, while others would feel it was [5]_____. The activity of friends' brains was more similar than that of people who didn't know each other, particularly in regions involved in attention, [6]_____, and language. This [7]_____ was strong enough that it could be used to predict whether two people were already friends or not. The relationship probably goes two ways: we are drawn to people who think like us. We then influence their thoughts over time, which may push their brain activity into more closely [8]_____ our own.

Our guest on today's Book Talk is John Black, the author of the new [1]_____, Retire Early. Thanks for having me on the show, Lisa. John, your book is getting a lot of attention, partly because you write that most people can [2]_____ by 40. Is that realistic? Definitely. When researching this book, I interviewed hundreds of people who [3]_____ by 40. Okay, but how much money does a person need to [4]_____? I've read articles recommending $1 million as a good figure for [5]_____. While most financial [6]_____ do give numbers, I don't think that's useful, as people are living in different areas with different costs of living and have different needs and wants, which is why I suggest that people aim for financial independence. What do you mean by financial independence? Having investment income that's greater than monthly [7]_____. That sounds risky to me. What if an [8]_____ happens, or you get ill and need medical treatment? Shouldn't people have extra cash for emergencies? Too many people spend their lives working on jobs they hate because they're [9]_____. So I counsel people to take risks. [10]_____ doesn't have to be permanent, and if people need to, they can go back to work. But it's not always easy to get back into the [11]_____ after an extended absence. True, but if you keep current with your skills, you will be attractive to [12]_____. Maybe, but how can anyone save enough to [13]_____ by 40 when most people can't retire at 60? Simple. By cutting housing, food, and transport [14]_____ and investing half your monthly income. That sounds impossible. I [15]_____ it's difficult, but it has worked for thousands.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

New research from America studies the role that the presence of individuals from different social or [1]_____ groups has in influencing consumers' food choices. This research found college students were more likely to choose healthy food in the presence of an [2]_____ of a different race, as opposed to an observer from their own race. The same was true when they were with someone from a different university compared to someone from their own. Researchers say this was because participants anticipated more negative judgment from an [3]_____ group. In contrast, they felt less judged by members of their own group. In one experiment, [4]_____ were offered the choice between candy and fruit as a snack. When in the presence of an unknown student from their own university, only 12% of students [5]_____ the healthier option. However, this number was 31% when in the presence of an [6]_____ student from another university. Other experiments showed similar results based on [7]_____ group. What's the reason for this pattern? The study found that people feel judged to a larger extent by members of other groups. Because of this, they [8]_____ use healthy food choices to make a positive impression. There have been many attempts to help [9]_____ make healthier choices, but consumers often struggle to maintain a healthy diet. This research finds that one way to promote a healthy diet could be to [10]_____ the social benefits of healthy choices.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

For college students under pressure, a dog may be the best stress [1]_____ around, according to the finding of a recent study. It's a really powerful finding, said Patricia Pendry, who led the study. Universities are doing a lot of great work trying to help students succeed [2]_____, especially those who may be at risk due to a history of mental health issues or academic and learning issues. This study shows that traditional stress management approaches aren't as effective for this population compared with programmes that focus on providing opportunities to [3]_____ with therapy dogs. The [4]_____ measured executive functioning in the students involved in the study. Executive function is a term for the skills one needs to plan, organize, motivate, concentrate, and [5]_____. These are skills students need to [6]_____ in college. The [7]_____ found that students who were most at risk had the most improvements in executive functioning after interacting with therapy dogs. These results remained when [8]_____ followed up six weeks later. Many universities provide academic stress management programs and [9]_____. These are [10]_____ very similar to college classes. They often talk about ways to get more sleep, set goals, or manage stress or [11]_____. Pendry acknowledges that these are really important topics and these [12]_____ help typical students succeed. But they're less helpful for struggling students. Pendry believes those students may experience the programmes as another [13]_____ and feel even more stressed.

Passage Three 第 22—25 题

Taking risks in business does not mean going into business [1]_____ and then expecting great results. On the contrary, taking risks in [2]_____ involves careful planning and hard work. Nobody can really be sure if risks will be met with success, no matter how [3]_____ they may be. But this should not stop you from taking risks, as risks are necessary if you want your business to [4]_____. Some risks may not work out, but an [5]_____ risk taker will always look at failure as an opportunity to learn. The [6]_____ to experiment with new ideas is key to business growth. As the old saying goes, nothing ventured, nothing gained. Failure will teach you how to think and plan [7]_____. But just remember that not all risks are good ones, and when you [8]_____, learn from it and move forward. Since most people tend to avoid risk, businesses that are [9]_____ enough to take risks already have a competitive advantage. They are the ones setting the standard with new ideas, fresh offers, and bold [10]_____. Risk takers are best at [11]_____ in difficult times. Simply put, when most individuals stay away from risk, it means less competition for risk takers. We don't know if you'll [12]_____ what these risk takers have achieved, but for as long as you want to stay safe and for as long as you are content with where your business is right now, you will never find out.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

Artificial intelligence agents play ever more [1]_____ roles in our lives. They do everything from suggesting new friends to [2]_____ purchases. They're even beginning to drive our cars. Another role that they are expected to take over is [3]_____ on our behalf in commercial transactions or legal disputes. So it's important to know whether using an artificial intelligence agent might affect how we [4]_____. Research indicates that it does. In a new study, [5]_____ were told to imagine that they were negotiating for something important to them, like a house. Next, they were told either that they would [6]_____ for themselves, or they would program an artificial intelligence agent to negotiate for them. Participants then completed a survey indicating how tough, [7]_____, and pleasant or otherwise they wanted to be, or wanted their agent to be, in the negotiations. For example, [8]_____ could choose to be tough by making an opening demand far greater than what they'd be willing to accept. They could also choose to express sympathy with their opponent to appear pleasant, but they could also indicate that they or their agent would [9]_____ express anger toward the opponent to gain advantage. Or they could opt to convey [10]_____ with the encounter, so that the other party would think they were losing interest. These are both examples of deceptive strategies. Participants were more willing to employ [11]_____ strategies when assigned an agent to negotiate on their behalf.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

New research has studied the effects of a seven-week healthy [1]_____ course. Academics measured the programme's effect on [2]_____ confidence and self-perceived mental health. Researchers also measured [3]_____' overall satisfaction around cooking and diet-related behaviours. What were the findings? Course [4]_____ saw significant improvements in general health. They also reported improved mental health and subjective [5]_____ immediately after the programme. These benefits remained six months after the [6]_____ of the course. What caused these improvements? [7]_____ have previously found a link between eating more fruits and vegetables and improved longer-term mental health. This would imply that the [8]_____ in the current study may have felt better due to improved diet. However, the study showed [9]_____' mental health improved even if their reported diet did not change after completing the program. Also, the mental health benefits were equal among participants who were overweight or [10]_____ and those in a healthy weight range. This suggests a link between cooking confidence and [11]_____ around cooking and mental health benefits. Who benefits most from learning to cook? Gender plays a part. At the start of the program, 77% of female [12]_____ were confident about cooking, but just 23% of males were confident. At the end of the programme, cooking confidence and skills were equal across both [13]_____. This change in confidence could lead to a gender balance in home [14]_____. This in turn could reduce consumption of [15]_____, high-calorie processed meals.

The scene, broadcast on television, [8]_____ thousands of complaints to City Hall. Some [9]_____ said they treat their medals as treasures and that it was disrespectful and unacceptable for Kawamura to bite one. I would cry if that happened to me, said another [10]_____, Naohisa Takato. I handle my own gold medal so [11]_____ that I would not scratch it.

Conversation One 第 8—11 题

What's that [1]_____ thing on your computer screen? It's something I bought yesterday. It's a plastic [2]_____ that blocks blue light. I have one that I use to cover my phone screen, too. What do you mean by blue light? Blue light includes natural light, but it also includes light that isn't natural, for example, from computers, phones, televisions, and other [3]_____ devices. So blue light is [4]_____ and that's why you want to block it? It isn't that simple. Blue light isn't necessarily bad for us. In fact we need blue light during the day to be healthy. But too much blue light, especially from electronic devices, can harm our health by [5]_____ our vision and making it harder for us to fall asleep. And poor sleep can cause all sorts of health problems. I'm not so sure that sleep is nearly as important as people always say it is. I haven't slept enough in months because I have too much work to do. And I feel fine. And it's the same for most of my friends. Poor sleep might be a problem for older people, but [6]_____ young people can handle late nights. Well, the research I've read shows that sleep is probably even more important than we thought, and that not having enough sleep can contribute to serious health problems, like [7]_____ and heart disease. And all the [8]_____ blue light from electronic devices means we have to try harder to sleep well. Maybe you're right. I'm on my computer very late most nights, and that's probably why I don't sleep enough.

Conversation Two 第 12—15 题

As a kid, did you know what job you wanted to do when you grew up? No, I didn't. And I got sick every time adults asked me what I wanted to be when I grew up. It's the same with me. And I'm tired of people asking that question of my ten-year-old daughter. My daughter's stock answers are basketball player, pop singer, [1]_____ engineer. Adults love that last one, as it's the perfect mix of the sensible and the [2]_____. When she was much younger, my daughter used to say she wanted to be queen of the [3]_____, which I loved. That's the kind of goal setting I like to see in children, springing from their [4]_____ imaginations. Yes, we grown-ups can be tedious and limiting in our need for reality, and we teach a very [5]_____ image of adulthood that whatever our children's future holds, it must be seen within the context of a job. How utterly overwhelming and dull. When people ask my son what he wants to be when he grows up, I have to [6]_____ the urge to say Hey, back off my kids' dreams. We can't [7]_____ the idea that teenagers have to plan to do something after they finish school, and parents are entitled to hope it's more than simply spending ten hours a day playing computer games. But asking "What do you want to be?" isn't going to lead a child to a [8]_____ life. Rather, it leads to false [9]_____ and a high chance of disappointment. Exactly. We should be helping our kids understand who they are, even if that means letting go of who we think they should be.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

Greater internet access correlates directly with [1]_____ health care, education and economic development. People living in rural areas, however, lag behind in online use, which limits their access to government services, [2]_____ and job opportunities. [3]_____ is this challenge clearer than in Africa. Most Africans live in rural areas that are tough to [4]_____ for Internet access. Now, some phone companies are trying to [5]_____ Internet-ready phones into African markets. Certain companies have started selling simple [6]_____ for only $20. Previously, the lowest price had been around $40, well out of reach for many people. These devices are powered by software from the giant [7] _____ company KaiOS Technologies Limited. Most companies are trying to make phones ever more powerful and [8] _____, but KaiOS went the other way. It made every effort to keep the essential capabilities of smartphones but strip out costs and preserve battery life for people who likely have [9] _____ access to electricity. The KaiOS [10] _____ offer an alternative to the more expensive models that remain out of reach of many Africans and contribute to the digital divide. The body of KaiOS phones is as basic as it gets. Instead of a touch screen, they're controlled with an old-school [11] _____. They're designed for 3G networks because 4G coverage doesn't reach two thirds of Africa's [12] _____. In total, KaiOS phones are made from about fifteen dollars worth of parts, while Apple's top-of-the-line [13] _____ has three hundred and ninety dollars worth of stuff.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

For years using [1] _____ plastic to make plastic products was cheap. By contrast, fossil fuel [2] _____ was more expensive. Thus the [3] _____ option was an economic option too. But now it is cheaper for major [4] _____ to use new plastic. According to one recent business report, [5] _____ plastic now costs an extra seventy two dollars a ton compared with newly made plastic. This may be because of consumer demands. They are pushing for more [6] _____ plastics in new products. Meanwhile, new plastic is becoming cheaper. This is because of a boom in [7] _____ chemical production from the US. The price increase of [8] _____ plastic could cost sustainable manufacturers an extra two hundred fifty million dollars a year. Smaller [9] _____ may also be forced to use new plastic to reduce costs. [10] _____ of clear plastic bottles may also opt for new fossil-fuel-based plastic to save money. Plastic packaging makers are being pressured to use more [11] _____ plastic. This is done in hopes of reducing the enormous amount of plastic [12] _____ in the oceans. The UK Government plans to tax companies which don't use at least thirty per cent [13] _____ plastic in their products. Additionally, the Government is planning to increase the quantity of [14] _____ plastic in the market. This could mean incentives for new [15] _____ plants. Additionally, recycling facilities may be improved at a local council level and [16] _____ plastic could be imported. This would help increase the amount of [17] _____ plastic in circulation.

At the Dreamery, a business in Manhattan, [1]_____ are for sale. A forty-five-minute session in a [2]_____ enclosure with peace and quiet costs twenty five dollars. To be clear, this [3]_____ is no hotel. This is a nap joint. It sells the idea of the nap as much as the nap itself. Is a nap worth twenty five dollars? The answer is obviously yes. Here at this point in the argument, it's traditional for me to bring up all the studies that show the benefits of [4]_____. But do you really need [5]_____ to tell you that? Just look at the world around you at two thirty in the [6]_____. I've been working from home for more than ten years now, and the quality and quantity of work I can do [7]_____ directly from my ability to concentrate. I don't understand how people have creative careers without [8]_____. Every day at about 1pm everyone faces the same choice, sleep until 2pm and then work until 5, or [9]_____ and drift around social media and attend pointless meetings until 7pm. The friends I have who still work in offices inform me their bosses insist that they take the second option and that napping is associated with [10]_____. I [11]_____ find it odd, for if you nap properly, it's like waking up from a full night's sleep and you can double your day's worth of concentration.

Welcome to our program, Friends and Relationships. Our guest today is [1]_____ Steve Pinker from McGill University. Glad to be here, Jane. Hi, Steve. Our question today is why friends suddenly [2]_____ ? They may block us on their social media accounts and stop [3]_____ to our emails. They simply vanish without a trace. The answer may lie in [4]_____, the way the person related to their mum and dad. It's related to their attachment styles. Attachment styles? Yeah, there are two different attachment styles, an anxious attachment style and an [5]_____ attachment style. When there is a relationship breakdown with their parents, children with an anxious [6]_____ style scream and cry to get their parents to come back, but other children simply shut down and try to deal with their emotions by ignoring the situation. And these attachment styles carry on into [7]_____. Does avoidance reduce their stress levels? Not really. Their stress levels are actually the same as those experienced by the children who [8]_____ and scream. And I assume both might be termed [9]_____. Exactly. And it's a very insecure attachment. How does an [10]_____ attachment affect relationships between friends, co-workers, and romantic relationships? It's the same as conflicts. So if you have a disagreement with a [11]_____ attached person, they're not going to panic. They're able to hear what the other person is saying and express their own feelings and thoughts [12]_____. However, an insecurely attached person won't. They might either attack you, get defensive, or just [13]_____ from your life. To them a difference, no matter how small in your eyes, [14]_____ the end of the relationship. That explains why they suddenly disappear.

I hear you're going to Japan soon. Yes, that's right. Could I ask you a favor? Sure. What is it? I was wondering if you could get me some [1]_____ while you're there. I'll pay you back, of course. A pair of jeans? Okay. I don't see why not. But what's wrong with jeans here? Well, I just love good [2]_____, and Japan happens to make the best in the world. My friend brought me a [3]_____ from there five years ago, and they still look new. Really, I had no idea Japan made [4]_____. I would have thought America made the best jeans, because it's a typical American [5]_____. Yeah, I thought so, too. But it turns out Japan still has some very old mills with the traditional [6]_____ tools used to make jeans the original way. It's a slower process of making clothing, but the end result is surely [7]_____. Also, the fabric they use is of a higher quality, and the [8]_____ are natural. They have a denser [9]_____ and are more durable than any other jeans in the world. That sounds cool. What size do you want, and how much are they? I have a thirty four [10]_____ and size thirty or thirty two in length. Either is fine. They should be around five hundred dollars, but make double certain they are made in Japan. Five hundred dollars? Boy, that's expensive. Do you typically spend that much on a pair of casual [11]_____? They are a little [12]_____, yes, but they are very special. Bear in mind they will last me several years, and they are very [13]_____ too. I think they're totally worth it.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

Every time I walk out of a [1]_____ movie I feel the same way. I experience a sense of [2]_____, realizing that there should be more in life. The desire for [3]_____ is a human one. Superhero films capture this desire perfectly. The plot of each superhero film has become relatively [4]_____. The world is in peril. The world needs a hero. The hero is in peril. The hero resolves the peril. The hero saves the world. Each film has an attractive lead, several expensive explosions, a few jokes to lighten the mood, and numerous punches that land [5]_____ well. Even though we [6]_____ know what will happen, we keep coming back for more. The elites of our society have rejected [7]_____ films. They say the films lack any form of [8]_____. These movies are [9]_____ as being too simple, but they give the fans what they want: entertainment. No matter the form in which they [10]_____ themselves, hero stories will always be present in life. It's not just about being [11]_____, but also being inspired. One author has mentioned that women desire to play an [12]_____ role in a great adventure. Most young women want to be a part of something grand, something important. It seems clear that this [13]_____ applies to men as well. So next time you see your favorite superhero film, be [14]_____, but also be inspired. Let that small [15]_____ you feel motivate you to make a difference.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

Telling stories is one of the most powerful means leaders have to influence, teach, and [1]_____. Storytelling forges connections among people. When it comes to our countries, our communities, and our families, we understand [2]_____ that the stories we hold in common are an important part of the ties that bind. This understanding also holds true in the business world, where an organization's stories and the stories its leaders tell help [3]_____ relationships in a way that factual statements don't. Good stories do more than create a sense of [4]_____. They build familiarity and trust. They allow the [5]_____ to enter the story, making them more open to learning. Good stories can contain multiple meanings so they're surprisingly [6]_____ in conveying complex ideas in graspable ways. And stories are more engaging than the [7]_____ of data points or a discussion of abstract ideas. Stories about professional mistakes and what leaders learned from them are another great [8]_____ for learning. Because people identify so closely with stories, they can imagine how they would have acted in similar [9]_____. They're able to work through situations in a way that's risk-free. There are extra benefits for leaders. With a simple personal story they can [10]_____ fundamental values. They can offer insight into the evolution of their own experience and knowledge, presenting themselves as more [11]_____, and then they are more likely to inspire others to want to know more.

Passage Three 第 22—25 题

The US was founded by [1] _____ waves of immigrants, and immigrants are still contributing to America today. Statistics prove it. On two key measures of financial performance, immigrants [2] _____ native-born Americans. First, they're more likely to be entrepreneurs. From nineteen ninety six to twenty sixteen, the pace at which [3] _____ started businesses was double that of US-born individuals. Immigrants aren't just becoming [4] _____ more frequently, they're often succeeding. Over forty percent of Fortune five hundred companies had a founder who was either an [5] _____ or the child of one. Another key [6] _____ of financial strength is debt level. Immigrants do better in this area too. [7] _____ use credit less often for purchasing cars, homes, or starting businesses. This results in [8] _____ lower levels of debt than native-born Americans. For example, thirty four per cent of Americans born in Latin America report no credit card or [9] _____ loan debt. This can be compared to just nineteen per cent of the general population. Why are immigrants doing so well? The values and habits they bring from their own [10] _____ help explain some of the success. [11] _____ tends to be higher in developing countries. That means more people must become entrepreneurs. Credit is also [12] _____ in most developing countries. This means individuals must save more in order to achieve their goals, or they [13] _____ money from friends and family rather than a bank. That means less debt and potentially better credit [14] _____ when they reach the US.

African leaders plan to turn the [1]_____ into a continent without borders. They will introduce a single [2]_____ policy allowing free movement between countries. The idea from the African Union has been modeled on the EU Schengen Free Movement Deal. Europe has abolished many internal borders. This enables visa-free movement across the continent. Currently, 13 African countries have visa-free deals in place with each other. These allow citizens to visit another country without a [3]_____. Some countries offer visas on arrival. In contrast, Americans are able to travel to 20 of the continent's countries without a [4]_____ or secure a visa on arrival. The African Union, which represents 54 states, wants to [5]_____ the requirement of a visa for Africans visiting other African countries. It also wants to establish a free trade deal across the [6]_____ in the near future, as trade within the African continent costs more than any other region.

News Report Two 第 3—4 题

[1]_____ in Iceland found a new way of tackling climate change by pumping carbon dioxide underground and turning it into stone. Other carbon capture and storage methods store carbon dioxide as a gas, but problems include a high cost and concern about [2]_____. This new method of [3]_____ carbon dioxide and turning it into stone is cheaper and more secure, The Guardian reports. To turn carbon dioxide into stone, researchers with the CarbFix project pumped the gas into [4]_____ rock and sped up the natural process in which the volcanic rock reacts with gas and forms carbon minerals. The gas turned into solid in just two years, much faster than the hundreds or thousands of years [5]_____ had predicted. The research took place at Iceland's Hellisheidi power plant. Already, the project in Iceland has been increased in scale to [6]_____ 10,000 tons of carbon dioxide each year. One potential difficulty is that for each ton of carbon dioxide [7]_____, the technique requires 25 tons of water. However, the lead researcher said [8]_____ could be used.

People in France are keeping away from the narrow French stick [1]_____ in favor of healthier, cheaper options, a millers' association has said. The National Association of French Millers says bread consumption is on the decline, with French people eating 9 [2]_____ less than in the previous year. The association is concerned about the effects this [3]_____ will have on their trade and suggests three reasons why it is happening. Firstly, the association cited changing diets, in particular, the switch to those low in [4]_____, as a factor in the reduction of bread consumption. This could explain why the difference in [5]_____ between genders is so big. Nowadays, men eat an [6]_____ average of 140 grams of bread daily, whereas women eat 80 to 90 grams. The second reason, they say, is lifestyle changes in the country, with people dedicating less time to breakfast when bread would [7]_____ be eaten with butter and jam. Finally, the rising cost of bread is considered to be a factor, with the price of a French stick [8]_____ increasing by nearly 25% in the last 10 years.

Summer doesn't begin for two more days, but scientists are already sounding the alarm about dangerous ice [1]_____ going on right now in Greenland. The vast island usually locks away enough fresh water in its ice sheet, which, if [2]_____, can raise global sea levels by six meters. And research shows that in recent years its ice has [3]_____ faster than ever before. This month, as temperatures in [4]_____ Greenland approach all-time highs, researchers are encountering unusual, surprising levels of melting ice in the region. The most significant [5]_____ here is how early this is all happening. Greenland experiences annual ice [6]_____ and growth cycles, but this year the melting season began in early May. That's a month earlier than normal, and something that's happened only once before in the [7]_____ record, in 2016. That means that not only is the ice [8]_____ very fast, it has more time to melt this summer than it would in a normal climate system. Longer [9]_____ seasons like this one seem to lead to much greater contributions to sea level rise than in previous decades.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

There's an [1]_____ amount of scientific data proving that dogs can develop strong bonds with their owners. People aren't kidding when they say they love their dog or their dog loves them, but we're rather [2]_____ about the nature of the relationships that form between dogs. In an effort to understand the matter further, I spoke with Dr. Marc Bekoff, a [3]_____ and former professor of animal behavior. The doctor's response to the question of whether or not dogs can fall in love like humans do was a straight "Of course." He went on to say that if love is defined as a long-term commitment, meaning dogs seek one another out when they're apart, they're happy when they're [4]_____, they protect one another, they feed one another, they raise their children together, then of course dogs love each other. Now our [5]_____ friends don't really experience romantic love like in the movies, but they can form deep and lasting bonds with their fellow dogs as well as humans. In fact, evidence shows that most dogs stay with one partner their whole lives. In actuality, love between dogs can be even more [6]_____ than human relationships. When they [7]_____, they aren't afraid to smell each other and will express themselves clearly and honestly. Once again, it seems we have a lot to learn from dogs.

What's up with you? You don't look very happy. I feel like I'm a failure. I can't seem to do anything very well. I wouldn't say that. You do very well in a lot of things. That [1]_____ you gave last week was excellent. Yes, but I have this urge to [2]_____ for perfection. I really want to push harder and [3]_____ further. Well, that's very admirable. But be careful. Over-concern with being perfect can damage our confidence if we never [4]_____ it. Yes, I know. I feel [5]_____ whenever I make a mistake in whatever I'm trying to do. Well, think about it. You can't make progress without making [6]_____ and learning from them. Thomas Edison, the famous [7]_____, once said, I've not failed. I've just found ten [8]_____ ways that won't work. You may well be right. I guess I should recognize my mistakes and learn the [9]_____ they teach me and move forward. Also, remember a successful ending is not the only thing [10]_____ of a celebration. You need to [11]_____ each step of progress you take towards achieving your goals and, no matter how tiny it is, it's still good news. I always feel down when I see others [12]_____ things, and I feel miserable about my own achievements. I'm always trying to be as good as others, but I never seem to get there. Listen, if you always compare yourself with others, you'll never feel good enough. You're the only person you should be [13]_____ yourself with. When you [14]_____ your current status with the starting point, you'll find you've made progress, right? That's good enough. That's great advice. Thank you. I'm feeling better already.

Passage One 第 16—18 题

Single-sex education can have [1]_____ benefits for female students. Numerous studies have shown that women who attend single-sex schools tend to have stronger self-confidence, better study habits and more ambitious career goals than women who attend [2]_____ schools. Girls who graduate from single-sex schools are three times more likely to become engineers than those who attend [3]_____ schools. The reason is that all girls' schools encourage women to enter fields traditionally [4]_____ by men, such as science, technology and engineering. In [5]_____ schools, girls are often expected to succeed only in the humanities or the arts. Research has also shown that in co-educational settings, teachers are more likely to [6]_____ and give in-depth responses to a boy's comments in class. In contrast, they might only [7]_____ to a girl's comments with a nod. They're also more likely to [8]_____ boys to work through problems on their own, while they tend to step in and help girls who struggle with a problem. In an all-girls setting, girls are more likely to speak up frequently and make significant contributions to class than in a [9]_____ setting. Girls studying in a single-sex setting also earn higher scores on their college board and advanced placement exams than girls who study in [10]_____ settings. All girls' schools tend to be smaller than [11]_____ schools, which means teachers will be able to tailor the materials to girl students' personal learning styles and interests.

After a tough workout or a day full of physical activity, it's common to find your muscles [1]_____. But where do these pains come from? According to a German professor, the [2]_____ comes from straining your muscles in an uncommon way. For example, jumping on a [3]_____ for a ride. Because you haven't ridden in a long time, [4]_____ occurs since your leg muscles aren't used to that movement. When muscles perform an activity they aren't regularly exposed to, the tiny [5]_____ that are inside them are being torn apart. As muscle [6]_____ develops, the body has to work to repair the muscle tears. But this doesn't happen immediately. First, the body must realize the muscles are [7]_____. When the body realizes the [8]_____ are hurt, the response is to increase blood flow to the area and increase body heat. Damaged cells are then cleaned up and the body sends cells specially designed to break down the large muscle fibre [9]_____. Healing can take place after this. It takes about a day until these cells make it to your [10]_____ muscles. That's why there's most often a delay associated with muscle [11]_____. Repair of damaged cells takes about two days and afterwards the [12]_____ disappears. Unfortunately, there's little that can be done to relieve muscle [13]_____. Pain-relieving creams don't work, but a hot shower or warm [14]_____ can provide some relief.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

My name is Brendan Leonard, and I'm an author, magazine writer, [1]_____, and public speaker. I'm self-employed, which means I work for myself and I do what I love. We have a popular saying in America, which goes, do what you love and you'll never work a day in your life. But I'm here to tell you that instead of focusing on doing what we love, I think we should focus on loving what we do. In my line of work, you hear a lot about talent, which is an idea we've mostly [2]_____ to give ourselves an excuse to be lazy. Here's why. If you see someone doing something really well, you would say it's because they're [3]_____. You think they're somehow special. You discount the [4]_____ amount of work they've done to get to where they are. Research has shown that [5]_____ is nothing without hard work. I choose to believe in hard work, but not so much in [6]_____. There are no special people, just people who put in enough hard work until something special happens. I can promise you one thing. Whatever you choose to do for a career, if you work hard at it, eventually special things will happen. They may not happen as quickly as you'd like them to, and they may turn out to be completely different from the special things you imagined at the beginning, but they will happen.

Millions of people are struggling to understand their paychecks or calculate money in shops, [1]_____ have said. Being bad at maths should no longer be seen as a badge of honour or down to genetics, according to National [2]_____, a new organisation which aims to challenge the nation's negative view of the subject. Chris Humphries, chairman of the group, said that poor [3]_____ skills can affect an individual's life, leaving them at a higher risk of being excluded from school or out of work. Figures from a government survey published last year show that 17 million adults in England have basic [4]_____ skills that are, at best, the same as an 11-year-old, he said. Speaking at the launch of National [5]_____, Mr Humphries said, That's a scary figure because what it means is they often can't calculate or give change. Mike Ellicock, chief executive of National [6]_____, said, We want to challenge this I-can't-do-maths attitude that is prevalent in the UK, adding that it was vital that all primary school teachers understand key maths concepts, as young children who fail to learn the basics will suffer later on.

All parents know it is difficult to get children to eat their [1]_____. Some of them offer [2]_____ or treats for children finishing their share. But researchers have discovered that [3]_____ who are not praised for trying vegetables are more likely to eat them eventually. The study found that the best way to get children to eat food they do not like is simply to give them [4]_____ exposure to it. [5]_____ from Ghent University in Belgium studied 98 children. They gave them five kinds of vegetables to eat: mushrooms, peas, [6]_____, carrots and cabbages. The taste tests revealed that carrots were the least liked vegetable among [7]_____. The children were then given a bowl of boiled [8]_____ and told to choose how much to eat. After eight minutes they were asked to rate the [9]_____ as delicious, just okay or disgusting. The trial went on twice a week for a month with a follow-up [10]_____ test after eight weeks. Children were split into three groups, with one group asked to try the bowl of [11]_____ repeatedly with no further encouragement. The other two groups were given rewards of a toy or [12]_____ praise. After the trial, 81% of children who simply tried the [13]_____ consistently liked them. This is in contrast to 68% for the group given a toy and 75% for the group given [14]_____ praise.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

One thing about the moon many people don't know is that it has a lot of [1]_____ on its surface left over from human space exploration. But how much [2]_____ exactly have humans left on the moon? It's hard to be accurate, but the trash likely weighs more than 181,000 [3]_____ on Earth. Much of it was left by American [4]_____ who landed on the lunar surface between 1969 and 1972 during NASA's Apollo missions. The other [5]_____ comes from missions that did not have human crews. These missions were conducted by various space [6]_____ agencies, including those from the U.S., Russia, Japan, India, and Europe. Many of the older pieces are equipment sent to learn about the moon. The equipment stayed there after its missions ended. The moon is also home to lunar [7]_____ that mapped the moon before they crashed into its surface, adding to the garbage heap. The objects left by the Apollo [8]_____ included equipment that was no longer needed. Bringing back [9]_____ equipment would have used up precious resources such as fuel. But as the saying goes, one person's trash is another's [10]_____. [11]_____ can study the garbage left on the moon to see how its materials weathered the radiation and vacuum of space over time. Moreover, some of the objects on the moon are still being used, including a laser range [12]_____ left by the Apollo 11 crew.

In my line of work, I receive a lot of [1]_____. I also send a lot of emails. Though social media and [2]_____ apps have taken over some of the roles from email as a form of communication, email is likely to retain an important role for business communication in the future. Surprisingly, though, a lot of companies and organisations lack formal guidelines for [3]_____. As most of you will soon be entering the workforce, I would like to share with you my own rules for [4]_____. If someone sends you an email, reply to them [5]_____ the email. A simple thank you lets the [6]_____ know that their email has arrived safely, that it has not been lost among what could be 50 other emails that have arrived in your email inbox that day. It's not necessary to reply to a mass email sent to numerous [7]_____. These emails are often informative rather than [8]_____ correspondence requiring a response or action. But it's common [9]_____ to respond to a personal message, preferably within 24 hours of receiving it. It's also important to use proper English. Just because emails are a quick form of communication doesn't mean emails, especially business emails, should be written using [10]_____ shortened forms of words. Think of an email as a letter. Spelling, grammar and punctuation should not be overlooked and never use capitals to [11]_____ a word or words in an email. It's the same as yelling.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

Some people say, if kids didn't have to go to school, they'd all be out in the streets. My reply is, no, they wouldn't. First, even if schools stayed just the way they are, children would spend at least some time there because that's where they'd be likely to find friends. Second, schools wouldn't stay the way they are. They'd get better because we would have to start making them what they ought to be right now. Last, if we stirred up our brains and gave children a little help, those who did not want to go to school could find other things to do, things many children now do during their [1]_____. There's something easier we could do. We need to get kids out of the school buildings. Give them a chance to learn about the world at first hand. In Philadelphia and Portland, Oregon, plans are being drawn up for public schools that won't have any school buildings at all. That will take the students out into the city and help them to use it and its people as a [2]_____. In other words, students, perhaps in groups, perhaps independently, will go to libraries, museums, exhibitions, [3]_____, radio and TV stations, meetings, businesses and laboratories to learn about their world and society at first hand. A small private school in Washington is already doing this. It makes sense. We need more of it.

The aircraft cost 25 million pounds and can carry heavier loads than huge jet planes, while also producing less noise and [6]_____ less pollution. The [7]_____ believe it's the future of aircraft, and one day we'll be using them to go places. But there's still a long way to go. The airlander will need to have two hundred hours flying time before being allowed to fly by the [8]_____ Administration. If it passes, though, we can hope we'll all get some extra leg room.

Conversation One 第 8—11 题

Do you feel like going out tonight? Yeah, why not? We haven't been out for ages. What's on? Well, there's a film about climate change. Does it sound good to you? Oh, not really. It doesn't really appeal to me. What's it about? Just climate change? I think it's about how climate change affects [1]_____ life. I wonder how they make it entertaining. Well, it sounds really awful. It's an important subject, I agree. But I'm not in the mood for anything [2]_____. What else is on? There's a Spanish dance festival. Oh, I love dance. That sounds really interesting. Apparently it's absolutely brilliant. Let's see what it says in the paper. [3]_____ Gomez leads in an exciting production of the great Spanish love story Carmen. Okay then, what time is it on? At 7:30. Well, that's no good. We haven't got enough time to get there. Is there anything else? There's a comedy special on. Where's it on? It's at the city theatre. It's a [4]_____ comedy night with lots of different acts. It looks pretty good. The [5]_____ in the local paper says it's the funniest thing he's ever seen. It says here: Roger Whitehead is an amazing [6]_____ to a night of fun performances. Hm, I'm not keen on him. He's not very funny. Are you sure you [7]_____ going out tonight? You're not very enthusiastic. Perhaps you're right. Okay, let's go see the dance, but tomorrow, not tonight. Great. I'll book the tickets online.

Conversation Two 第 12—15 题

Good morning, Mr. Lee. May I have a minute of your time? Sure, Catherine. What can I do for you? I'm quite [1]_____ about transferring over to your college. I'm afraid I won't fit in. Don't worry, Catherine. This happens to many transfer students. Yes, I know, but I'm younger than most of the students in my year, and that worries me a lot. Well, you may be the only younger one in your year, but, you know, we have a lot of after-school activities you can join in, and so, this way, you'll be able to meet new friends of different age groups. That's nice. I love games and hobby groups. I'm sure you do. So you'll be just fine. Don't worry so much and try to make the most of what we have on offer here. Also, remember that you can come to me any time of the day if you need help. Thanks so much. I definitely feel better now. As a matter of fact, I've already contacted one of the girls who'd be living in the same house as me, and she seemed really nice. I guess, living on [2]_____, I'll have a chance to have a closer circle of friends, since we'll be living together. All students are very friendly with new [3]_____. Let me check who'd be living with you in your [4]_____. Okay, there are Hannah, Kelly, and Bree. Bree is also a new student here, like you. I'm sure you two will have more to share with each other.

Passage Two 第 19—21 题

The United States has one of the best [1]_____ systems in the world. [2]_____ highways connect just about every large and mid-sized city in the country. Did you ever wonder why such a complete system of [3]_____ roads exists? For an answer, you would have to go back to the early 1920s. In those years, just after World War I, the military wanted to build an American [4]_____ system for national defense. Such a system could, if necessary, move [5]_____ quickly from one area to another. It could also get people out of cities in danger of being [6]_____. So-called roads of national importance were [7]_____, but they were mostly small country roads. In 1944, Congress passed a bill to [8]_____ the system, but did not fund the plan right away. In the 1950s, the plan began to become a reality. Over $25 billion was appropriated by Congress, and construction began on about 40,000 [9]_____ of new roads. The idea was to connect the new system to existing [10]_____ and freeways. And though the system was built mostly to make car travel easier, defense was not forgotten. For instance, highway [11]_____ had to be high enough to allow trailers carrying military missiles to pass under them. By 1974, the system was mostly completed. A few additional roads would come later. Quick and easy travel between all parts of the country was now possible.

Passage Three 第 22—25 题

Texting while driving was listed as a major cause of road deaths among young Americans back in 2013. A recent study said that 40% of American [1]_____ claimed to have been in a car when the driver used a cell phone in a way that put people in danger. This sounds like a [2]_____ disease, but it's one that technology may now help to cure. T.J. Evarts, a 20-year-old [3]_____, has come up with a novel solution that could easily put texting drivers on notice. It's called Smart Wheel, and it's designed to fit over the steering wheel of most standard vehicles to track whether or not the [4]_____ has two hands on the wheel at all times. Evarts' invention [5]_____ the drivers with a light and a sound when they hold the wheel with one hand only, but as soon as they place the other hand back on the wheel, the light turns back to green and the sound stops. It also watches for what's called close-by hands, where both hands are close together near the top of the wheel, so the driver can type with both [6]_____ and drive at the same time. All the data Smart Wheel collects is also sent to a connected app, so any parents who [7]_____ Smart Wheel can keep track of the teens' driving habits. If they try to [8]_____ or damage the cover, that's reported as well.
